Current Forms

The days for Girls Solon Ohio team currently uses Google forms and spreadsheets to keep track of inventory and mailing list signups.

These forms work well enough, but the team want's more features that Google just doesn't provide.

This screenshot shows a Google Form titled "Days For Girls Solon Components Input". It includes fields for "What Component" (a dropdown menu), "Quantity" (a text input field), and "Date Entered" (a date picker). There is also a section for "Who Donated Component" with a text input field. At the bottom are "Submit" and "Clear form" buttons.

This screenshot shows a Google Form titled "Days For Girls Solon Components - Sent". It includes fields for "Component" (a dropdown menu), "Quantity" (a text input field), and "Where" (a text input field). At the bottom are "Submit" and "Clear form" buttons.

This screenshot shows a Google Form titled "Join the Solon team Days for Girls mailing list". It includes fields for "Full Name" (a text input field), "Email" (a text input field), and "Phone Number (optional)" (a text input field). A section for "What would you like to do?" contains checkboxes for "General Volunteer", "Sewing", and "I just want to receive the emails and newsletters". At the bottom are "Submit" and "Clear form" buttons.

Here is an example of the link to a form: <https://forms.gle/aknhvXhR7RcyYYqa6>

It is not easy to remember or share. Their current solution for sharing the links are QR codes, but it's still a hassle.

Current Inventory Spreadsheets

Here are the spreadsheets that are generated from the Google forms. There are some functions to calculate totals and current inventory.

One feature the team wants is the ability to calculate totals for a single month or date range to share with the Days for Girls international team in their email reports. Currently they have to manually do the calculations for the emails.

Day For Girls International website

Here is a look at the Days For Girls international site design. The app I am creating will use this design for consistency.
